PFA conducts various activities like taking lectures, display of pictures etc. in collages for creating awareness in collaboration to the forest department of Maharashtra. PFA has formed Eco- clubs for schools collages to spread awareness in public. People from various villages are involved in conservation activities, like joint forest management, wild life protection etc. People For Animals runs various projects in rural areas on human wildlife conflict. To control this situation we aware local villagers, give importance about wildlife and its conservation and why they are necessary to sustain our environment. By the medium of this project we will try to create awareness measures like enacting street play, distributing pamphlets, pasting wall posters, screening film shows, field demonstration and workshop by experts may be undertaken.

Apart from this we will try to teach them how to protect their crops using natural techniques from wild boar, nilgai. At the same time we will teach some rescue techniques and standard operating procedure for managing human wildlife conflict to the forest department and try to make a well trained rescue team in every villages near to the Bor tiger reserve's protected area.
