1. Report of the Officer-in-charge

Looking beyond the pandemic

This year (2021-2022) has had its share of ups and downs for Croc Bank, yet, it has been better than the uncertainties of last year. As we come to the end of another season, we reflect on how we began it, right in the middle of the second wave that led to our second lockdown from April 20th to August 24th. The next few months flew by, with the hope that COVID-19 was behind us, with visitors waiting for a break after being cooped up in their homes for ages. It didn't last long as the third wave hit Chennai around the Pongal festival which is normally our best season. A partial lockdown was back in place but people were cautious this time and stayed indoors. COVID is the new norm that we will have to get used to, just like we overcame earlier epidemics like the bird flu and the swine flu. Our staff has been vaccinated and safety precautions continue at the zoo.

The transfer of crocodiles from MCBT to Gujarat will help to ease up the space constraint and pave the way for the modernization of our zoo. We are now gearing ourselves to start up a major crowdfunding campaign to raise funds to execute our Master Plan that has been on the cards since 2013. Although virtual programs still continue to happen, we will gradually introduce physical events. Volunteers have started visiting our zoo in small numbers but our special educational programs like the night safari and snake walks are still on hold. An olive ridley turtle hatchery has been set up on our beach and eggs were collected during the nesting season. A film about snakebites in the northeast is almost complete and ready to be launched. The Vet lab has been upgraded with new equipment that would pave the way for more accurate diagnosis and research. To top it all, our dear friend Jaws is back, preserved for posterity, as our star display in the Reptiles Interpretation Centre.

We end this year, with gratitude, and optimism....gratitude for how our supporters and friends responded to our call for action and stood by us through this journey, and yes, optimism as we undertake rebuilding in the wake of the pandemic to emerge as a world-class attraction with exciting exhibits and newer additions to our already exhaustive collection.

Pramila Rajan
Director

2. History of the Zoo

It was started in 1976 by a group of idealistic conservationists including Rom Whitaker, initially with private funds and a lot of goodwill and support from friends and family, as a desperate effort to save India's dwindling crocodilian populations from extinction. At that time the gharial was particularly endangered, with only 300 or so left in the wild. The mugger and saltwater crocodile were in better shape but hunting and habitat depletion were serious threats for them as well. Today, after 40 years of cutting-edge science/research and grassroots education and awareness building, the Croc Bank is recognized as a world leader in the field of frontline conservation of species and habitats. Its infrastructure and programs include a reptile zoo on the East Coast Road south of Chennai, and field stations and study sites reaching as far afield as the Nicobar Islands.

The zoo receives about 4.5 lakh visitors annually, making it one of the popular tourist attractions in the region. Originally designed to be a living repository of crocodilians for genetic safekeeping, the Croc Bank is now no longer confined to crocodile conservation but includes all reptiles in its mandate and its title includes "Centre for Herpetology". The release of captive bred crocodiles into the wild, which was the original goal, has not happened because of shrinking wilderness areas and the lack of suitable habitats. The mandate has also extended to crocodilians from other countries, in fact all the world's species, ie 27. Of these, 15 are housed at the Croc Bank currently, the only place in India where such a sizeable chunk of the total species can be seen. Of the 15 species represented, 3 are listed as Critically Endangered by the IUCN.

In 2003, the Trustees of the Croc Bank decided to expand its mandate and reach, and become a centre for herpetology. Its work now includes the conservation of all reptiles, ie snakes, chelonians and lizards as well. The need for chelonian conservation has grown in recent years and MCBT now breeds several threatened species including 2 that are listed as Critically Endangered by IUCN.

3. Vision

To develop and run a world-class reptile zoo, and to promote the conservation of reptiles and amphibians and their habitats through education, scientific research and captive breeding.

4. Mission

Efforts are focused on, but are not limited to, Indian species and ecosystems and include both in-situ and ex-situ components.

5. Objective

- Conservation breeding of endangered species in captivity and to maintain a gene bank of endangered reptiles.
- Facilitate research and scientific study on reptile behaviour, enclosure enrichment, Feed, nutrition and reproductive biology.
- Promote education & awareness amongst visitors on the role of reptiles in the natural world and the importance of reptile conservation.
- Ensure comfortable housing for all reptiles with special emphasis on health care, animal welfare and excellent animal husbandry.
